Biography

Antoinette Weibel

Prof. Dr. oec. publ.

Since February 2014, Antoinette Weibel is Full Professor for Human Resource Management and since April 2016 Director at the Institute for Work and Employment Research (FAA-HSG) at the University of St. Gallen. She is President of the Executive Committee of the Institute for Systemic Management and Public Governance at the University of St.Gallen (IMP-HSG) and President of the Ethics Committee of the University of St.Gallen. She is a member of the Executive Committee of the Institute for Media and Communications Management (MCM-HSG) and at the Institute for Business Ethics (IWE-HSG) at the University of St.Gallen. Further, she has been elected to the executive board of the Swiss Academy of Humanities and Social Sciences (SAGW).

Antoinette Weibel is a dedicated trust and motivation researcher with numerous publications in her field of research. Her research focuses on trust management in companies, corporate trust, stakeholder trust, trust-based leadership and motivational management. Together with Ottilie Vogt, founder of "good organizations" and formerly COO-ING, she established the "Good Organization Research Lab". Current research topics are "practical" wisdom, thriving, responsible leadership and good work (also in the context of AI).

Antoinette Weibel is also involved in teaching and executive education. She teaches human resource management, research ethics, organizational design, ethics, and analytics on all levels (undergraduate, graduate, doctoral, and managerial). She is also a member of various committees that strive to transfer research into practice. In 2021 and 2023, her multifaceted commitment to practice events was recognized when she was selected as one of the 40 leading HR minds in the German-speaking world (Haufe Personalmagazin). Her commitment as a member of the presidium of numerous associations as well as a speaker, coach, and sparring partner for top management and C-suites rounds off her profile.
